The WOMAN'S LOOKOUT

By CLAIRE BURNS

BEAUTIFUL FINGERNAILS—

Nail polishes come in such lovely spring flowery mauve shades these days that it's a positive pleasure to see your own finger nails lying on a bridge table, or a white lace luncheon cloth. Even at the risk of being considered an old show-off by your best friends you hope they take a good look at your spring-like nails.

One thing to remember about beautiful fingernails is that even before decoration with your favorite shade among the new polishes you must have a healthy foundation. A weekly manicure should be included in the budget if possible. But if you do your own fingernail home-work be sure you make it a weekly habit. No great cash outlay is necessary. All you need is: Emery boards, orange stick, cotton, nail scissors for an extreme hang nail, polish, nail remover, cuticle remover, cuticle oil or brittle nail cream, and nail white in some form. To get yourself into good habits follow this routine:

1. Remove old polish with cotton dipped in oily polish remover.
 2. File and shape nails, using coarse side of emery board. File nails oval rather than pointed, and do not file them too close at the sides. Use fine side of emery board to bevel the nail edge.
 3. Scrub nails in warm soapy water and dry thoroughly.
 4. Remove cuticle, using a cotton-tipped orange stick dipped in oily cuticle remover. Work the stick around the edge of the nail gently, to soften and loosen the dead lifeless cuticle overlapping the nail. Use it also to remove stubborn bits of dirt embedded under the nail tip.
 5. Apply nail white pencil under free edge of nail, and scrub the fingers thoroughly once more. In wiping them dry you can remove the last remaining bits of loosened cuticle.
 6. Apply liquid polish. First drain brush at the edge of the bottle so that it is not too full. In applying deeper shades use a little more polish on the brush than with lighter shades. Use tip of orange stick to remove any polish that runs into creases at sides of nail. Allow polish to dry thoroughly.
 7. Finish by applying cuticle oil or brittle nail cream, massaging it about base and sides of nail to stimulate circulation as well as conditioning cuticle.
- Don't cut cuticle, if you would avoid aggravating hang nails.
- To make the nails look longer use a fairly deep polish and cover the entire tip, then remove a hairline just at the edge with thumb of opposite hand. With softer shades the natural tip must be followed. With smoky shades use two coats if the tip is to be covered.

DOMESTIC ENEMY NIL—

The moth is an under cover worker and should be carefully watched at this season of the year. The evil that a moth works in the household linen and clothes closets lives after it, and to get ahead of the moth the housewife must start before the moth has a chance of laying its eggs. The repellent must come before the moth which is only dangerous to clothing in its larva stage and can lie dormant for years in an atmosphere redolent of moth balls. The vital ingredient of a modern moth repellent is an organic chemical dangerous to moths but quite harmless to textiles and human beings. Whenever infestation with moth eggs is suspected the safest treatment is fumigation with a highly lethal gas which is best carried out by dry cleaning, fumigation and storage services which have the proper machinery. Chemical moth repellents for household use are most effective when the clothes together with a good dose of the asphyxiating gas, are hermetically sealed in a container.

USE FRESH POSIES FOR BRIDAL HAT

By LISBETH

GIVE an original note to her wedding, the bride can have her attendants carry flowers in different ways than the conventional bouquet, says Mrs. Bert Schiller McDonald, flower stylist. Large straw hats when tied with broad satin loops and filled with flowers, make beautiful arm baskets. Quite fetching, too, are dainty maline fns trimmed with flowers. Tulle flower-trimmed muffs are also quite new and attractive.

For a garden wedding many brides prefer to wear a hat in place of the traditional veil. If she chooses this type of head-dress, the hat may be trimmed with fresh flowers and she can wear a corsage of similar flowers. Large picture hats trimmed with flowers to match their bouquets are also chic for bridesmaids.

The bride who has a quiet wedding in a tailored suit, by the way, wears a corsage — she does not carry flowers.

Chooses Hat

The bride pictured has chosen a broad-brimmed leghorn hat trimmed with a cluster of sweet-heart roses in place of the traditional veil. In place of an arm bouquet she wears a dainty corsage combining roses with lilies-of-the-valley and tulip centered at the waistline. This costume might also be worn by a bridesmaid. A close-up of the hat, and bouquet are shown above.

White carnations are gaining in favor for the bridal bouquet. No ferns or foliage are used with them. Stems are wrapped in white satin, and fluffy white tulle interspersed with the blooms provide contrast and add a light and airy touch.

It is always wise, when planning a wedding, to consult your florist well in advance as to what flowers will be most suitable. A good florist, accustomed to arranging wedding bouquets, will know the best types of bouquets for particular types of dresses. He can tell you exactly what will be in season and can be trusted to arrange the flowers beautifully on the big day.

Bride chooses wide-brimmed leghorn hat trimmed with sweet-heart roses in place of veil, wears corsage of roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Who Pays

The question often arises "who pays for the flowers at a wedding?" It is an old tradition that the bridegroom pays for the bride's bouquet. Either the bridegroom or the bride's family may pay for the bridesmaids' bouquets—usually it's the bride's parents. "Corsages for the mothers of the bride and groom and lapel flowers for all the men are bought by the bridegroom. This doesn't mean that the groom selects and orders the flowers, for these arrangements are almost always made by the bride or her mother. Flowers used in decorating the home or church are the responsibility of the bride's father.

Human Welfare Program

Under the leadership of the new president, Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar, the General Federation of Women's clubs is shaping its 1938-'39 program, the keynote being, "Adjusting democracy for human needs." "How can we promote public welfare or human welfare?" she asked in her acceptance speech at Kansas City, Mo. "Certainly we cannot go beyond our knowledge or our willingness to serve the desperate human needs of this hour. Nor can we live a complacent, satisfied personal life apart from our fellow man, for all true living is social thought of others. We must adjust our own attitudes and utilize all our powers. We must accept new philosophies and rapid change, must provide definite, concrete and timely programs against those forces undermining the well-being of our people and producing many of the social maladjustments of the present day.

"We must hold fast to future ideals to make possible the action of today, and to the finer traditions of our country."

Individual Ham Loaves
Pineapple Slices
Scalloped Potatoes
Mixed Vegetable Salad
With French Dressing
Cheese Crackers
Coffee or Tea

Don't forget to serve crackers and cheese for dessert occasionally. You certainly will please the people who are trying to avoid sweets—and aren't there some in every family? If your crackers have lost their crispness, put them in a warm oven for a few moments. Wash and pick over the kale, then cook, with hot water, like spinach (but it takes longer to cook than spinach), until tender, season with butter, pepper and salt.

Today's Recipes

Individual Ham Loaves—One pound one-half pounds ground smoked ham, one pound ground fresh pork, one cup bread crumbs, two eggs, one and one-half cups milk, one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Have smoked ham and fresh pork ground together. Combine with bread crumbs and moisten with slightly beaten eggs and milk. Season and pack into greased muffin tins or custard cups. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until done, 45 minutes to an hour. Serve with pineapple slices which have been browned in ham drippings.

Style Whimsies

One coat shop reports that turquoise is the most popular summer coat color with maize next, then cherry, and dusty pink important as a novelty.

Crush-resistant, water repellent velvet is made into a smart sport hat with high crown and cartridge pleats brought up on to the crown in front. It is from Reboux, Paris.

One of the Paris masters of fashion is showing a dinner dress in a silk weave which is called "pied-de-poule," meaning "chicken's feet." What next?

In Paris is shown a simple dress of black marocain covered with ball buttons of black Irish crochet. It is by Francevramant.

One coat shop reports that "Salad greens" for cool summer wear range all the way from the palest to the deepest shades, and are very chic.

Hip-length jackets of fox are being featured for the first wintry blasts.

Dainty decorations of grosgrain ribbon will adorn the dressy new fall black suede shoes.

CANDLEWICK SPREAD NEEDS NO IRONING

Candlewick bedspreads have survived since the days when our thrifty colonial ancestors embroidered bed covers and other household goods with the thread they used for the wicks in candlemaking. Beautiful, serviceable and easy to baby, this type of covering is especially suitable for bedrooms furnished in Early American style.

A sunny, windy day is best for washing a candlewick spread. Use lukewarm water and enough soap to make a thick, live lather. Rinse well and, if possible, hang it out of doors.

No ironing is necessary. Place the spread on a bed or some other flat surface when dry, and brush it lightly with a clean whisk broom to smooth the surface without flattening the embroidered threads.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

Hollywood — Almost sylph-like compared to his silhouette in "Radio City Revels," Jack Oakie goes before the camera 45 pounds lighter in "The Affairs of Anna-belle." For the comedian they were expensive pounds. To lose them he had to pick over the kale, then cook, with hot water, like spinach (but it takes longer to cook than spinach), until tender, season with butter, pepper and salt.

Jack Oakie the services of doctors and of masseurs.

And, now that he has made the weight for the picture, his clothes don't fit him any more and he has had to put out $600 for a new wardrobe.

J. Weissmuller, a Catalina spy reports, is paying a diver $50 a day in an effort to recover a ruby ring lost by the swimming star while surf boarding. It's like looking for a needle in a haystack, but Weissmuller is determined to get the ring back if possible.

For two reasons. It cost $2,500 and it was a birthday present from Lupe Velez.

The youngest of the De Milles is to carry on the family tradition in the show business. He is the baby son just born to the John Blount de Milles. In midsummer, his grandfather, Cecil B. de Mille, will put him before the camera, if only for a moment, in the picture "Union Pacific."

An M.G.M. promotion stunt for "Yellow Jack" is an oddity in the news. The studio will give three special showings of the picture. In New York for John R. Kinsinger; in Lexington, Va., for Dr. Robert Kooke, and in Havana for John J. Moran, manager of an oil company.

The three men are former members of the U.S. medical corps in Cuba and inspired the characters played in the film by Sam Levene, Alan Curtis and Robert Montgomery.

At the preview of "White Banners," Lloyd C. Douglas cried all through the picture; so here, apparently, is one author who won't exorcise the movies for the way they treated his story.

Mr. Douglas has no cause for complaint. The Cosmopolitan production is an extraordinary moving film, beautifully acted by Fay Bainter, Claude Rains, Bonita Granville, Jackie Cooper and the rest. Miss Bainter's performance is the finest she has given for the screen. I think Douglas fans will agree that "White Banners" is a better picture than "Green Light," which cleaned up at the box-office.

Mickey Rooney, now 17, and the possessor of a valet, graduates from M. G. M. school this June . . .

The Tito Guizar, who is expecting a beautiful, serviceable and easy to baby, this type of covering is especially suitable for bedrooms furnished in Early American style.

A sunny, windy day is best for washing a candlewick spread. Use lukewarm water and enough soap to make a thick, live lather. Rinse well and, if possible, hang it out of doors.

Latest night spot scheduled for the Sunset Boulevard strip is the Club Morocco. It has no connection with New York's "El Morocco." There's not a zebra stripe in the house. . . . Merna Kennedy, who looks so well, is out to stage a screen comeback. She hasn't made a picture since she married Busby Berkeley in 1931. And despite the fact that she worked for Chaplin years ago Merna is only 25. . . . That was Eileen Cole with Dennis O'Keefe at the Band Box. . . . And Olivia de Havilland saw New York on the arm of Brian Aherne.

Most great actresses are experts at the art of bringing things to a headline.

JUST HURD IN HOLLYWOOD—

ANN SOTHERN FELL FOR

BUT NOT THE WAY YOU THINK. IT HAPPENED DURING THE FILMING OF A RECENT PICTURE—

"ANN IN THIS NEXT SCENE—YOU'RE SUPPOSED TO FALL DOWN—NOW BE SURE AND MAKE IT LOOK REALISTIC. JUST LET YOURSELF GO!"

REALISTIC IS RIGHT. ANN LET HERSELF GO SO ENERGETICALLY THAT SHE ACTUALLY LOST HER BALANCE AND BOUNCED ON THE FLOOR WITH A LOUD THUMP—ACCIDENTALLY BANGING HER HEAD AGAINST A TABLE LEG ON THE WAY DOWN!

WHEN THE FLYING MISS SOTHERN FINALLY CAME TO REST—SHE CALLED FOR A MIRROR AND ANXIOUSLY TOOK INVENTORY TO SEE IF ALL HER FEATURES WERE STILL THERE. BUT A CUT LIP AND A BAD SHAKING UP MADE A RE-MAKE ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY!

BUT ANN'S BIGGEST JOLT CAME WHEN SHE RETURNED TO THE STUDIO!

"I'M SORRY—ANN—BUT THAT FALL YOU DID LAST WEEK LOOKED TOO PAINFULLY REALISTIC ON THE SCREEN. YOUR SCREAM WAS POSITIVELY BLOODCURDLING AND THE WHOLE SCENE WOULD SICKEN THE AUDIENCES."

Lucille Ball, young film actress, advises coating wax candles with a very thin covering of shellac when the weather warms, to keep them from softening. This makes them stand erect, but does not interfere with their burning evenly.

Father's Day Next Sunday

Only during the past few years has Father come into his own with the recognition of one day in the year, namely the third Sunday in June, being set aside as Father's Day. A great deal has been made of Mother's Day and it seems only fitting, even if dad is a sort of independent sort of chap, who outwardly scorns a lot of mawkish sentiment, that his children demonstrate their appreciation of him, even if only in a small way, for he has worked earnestly to provide for his family and few will disagree that their dads have given them something as necessary and almost, if not quite, as priceless as mother love. So let's remember Dad this year.

The figures as far back as 1400 B.C. are fairly accurate, those earlier than that century being of little value.

Blouse For Wear With Your Summer Suit is as Important as The Suit.
By Central Press

Florence George

A summer suit is important to every woman—for all the various outside activities of her life. Summer suits of lightweight wool and cotton materials or linen, are as smart looking as any spring, autumn or winter suit could be.

And the blouse you choose to wear with the suit is just as important as the suit. It either adds to or detracts from the attractiveness of the whole costume.

With a well-tailored suit with double-breasted jacket in wrist length, Florence George, film actress, wears washable blue crepe tailored softly into a short-sleeved model with a bow of the crepe and three pearl studs supplying the details. One inverted pleat at the centre back stresses comfort.

Presentation

"We, the pupils and teachers of G.H.S. have assembled here this afternoon to express to you our feelings of regret at your departure from us. For the past few years we have worked together and have enjoyed our associations with you at all times. You have had splendid success in your work here and it will be difficult to find someone who can quite take your place among us.

"We wish you every joy in the years that lie ahead and sincerely regret that you have chosen to live in another country, however, we know that what is our loss is another's gain.

"As a small token of our esteem kindly accept this gift and along with it go the very best wishes of the pupils and teachers of Grimsby High School.

Perry McLean
Agnes Kennedy."

PEACH KINGS DROP GAME TO SMITHVILLE BY 6 TO 4

A real ball game, with Cocks a little better than Fox in a close pitcher's battle, resulted in the second defeat for Grimsby in a Fruit Belt league game played at Smithville last night.
Even at that the locals had a chance to win, having more men left on bases, but could not seem to hit in the pinches.

The return game here on Friday night should be the best game of the season so far.

A carpenter by trade, Osmond built the Lydia F. from salvaged bits of wood and equipped it with an engine he purchased for five dollars. Accompanying him are his four children. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON PREVIEWED

The Golden Text

Mark 10:45—"For the son of man also came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

The Suffering Servant

PREVIEW OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for June 19, is Mark 15:22-39, the Golden Text being Mark 10:45, "For the Son of man also came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many.")

"Beneath a Syrian sky, amid a rabble cry, a Man went forth to die—for me! Thorn-crowned his blessed head, blood-stained his every tress; cross-laden, on he sped—for me! Lifted up was he to die; 'It is finished,' was his cry; now in heaven exalted high. Hallelujah! What a Saviour."

The Wondrous Cross
Six desperately long hours Jesus hung upon that cruel cross under the prophetic title Pontius Pilate wrote to sting the pride of those who drove him to crucify him. "Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews" was the title which Pilate wrote more wisely than he realized, for Christ was King indeed. The chief priests also spoke as involuntary prophets when they mockingly cried out at him, "He saved others; himself he cannot save." "Let the Christ, the King of Israel, now come down from the cross that we may see and believe." Having come down from the cross by way of the open tomb and a glorious resurrection, even his crucifiers admit that men should believe on him as Christ of God.

The Authority of the Cross

Upon that wondrous cross on which the Prince of Glory died, he exercised complete authority over all the forces of life and death. He had said, "I lay down my life for the sheep; no man taketh it from me; I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power (authority) to take it again." In this God-given authority he spoke seven authoritative words from the cross: (1) "Father forgive them," a word of authority with the Father for our forgiveness; (2) "Today shalt thou be with me in paradise," a word of authority with us as sinners for our absolution; (3) "Woman, behold thy son," a word of authority to the sorrowing for our comfort; (4) "My God, My God, why hast thou forsaken me?" a word of authority with sin for its propitiation; (5) "I thirst," a word of authority with pain to endure it; (6) "It is

Poems That Live

THE ORIOLE

When the bright orchard oriole hangs her new home On Tolman Sweet's limb upon high,
Then we know that the summer is here—and to stay—
The cold chilly days have gone by.

And we watch her at weaving that wonderful work Of bird-craft, with skill and with care,
A home of dried grasses and may—some strings,
To swing in the sweet summer air.
Then we wonder who taught her that marvelous art,
To swing on the orchard limbs tall
A rock-a-bye cradle, upon the tree top,
But never, no never, to fall.

And when she has brooded her four little babes,
The wind swings that rock-a-bye bed,
And lulls the wee birdies to sleep and to rest,
So far away up overhead.

Her mate, in his orange coat, warbles his song
So sweetly and clearly all day;
Yes, we know when the oriole hangs her nest-home,
That summer is here—and to stay.

—Ralph Gordon.

NEW LIFE

Spring comes laughing down the valley
All in white, from the snow
Where the winter's armies rally
Loth to go.

Beauty white her garments shower On the world where they pass,
Hawthorn hedges, trees in flower, Daisies in the grass.
Tremulous with longings dim, Thickets by the river's rim
Have begun to dream of green. Every tree is loud with birds,
Burgeon heart—do thy part! Raise a slender stalk of words
From a root unseen.

—Amelia Josephine Burr

INFANT JOY

"I have no name;
I am but two days old."
What shall I call thee?
"I happy am,
Joy is my name."
Sweet joy befall thee!

Pretty joy:
Sweet joy, but two days old.
Sweet joy I call thee;
Thou dost smile:
I sing the while;
Sweet joy befall thee!

—William Blake.

NOTES ON Canadian Birds By G.H. RICHARDSON

Along pebbly beaches, as well as cultivated fields, one may at this time encounter what appear to be little fuzzy balls running around on strong legs—downy young killdeer plovers.

As they hatch from the egg, birds of different families present a different appearance. The young of plovers, sandpipers, geese, ducks,

Downy Young Killdeer

gulls, terns and grouse, are completely covered with down, like a chick, and as soon as they are dry, are able to move about under their own power. These are called precocial young. In families such as the finches, thrushes, blackbirds, etc., the nestlings are almost naked, the few tufts of down and very beginnings of feathers increasing the hideousness of their appearance. Instead of the sturdy legs of the precocial bird, those of the altricial bird will not support the nestling's weight and the toes are limp as the birds rest on their breasts.

The baby altricial bird may be ugly to look at, but it does illustrate well the fact, not generally realized, that birds do not have feathers originating from the entire surface of their bodies. Instead, the feathers originate in tracts. There is one from the centre of the crown continuing down the back to the tail; one over each wing; one from the centre of the throat, branching at the breast and continuing down each side; one on each leg; and the feathers of the wings and tail. The feathers are sheathed at first, but these sheaths are soon discarded, the released feathers spreading out. As the bird grows and these feathers reach their fullest development, they overlap in such a way that they cover the bird completely and form the juvenal plumage mentioned last week.

Some birds keep this plumage longer than others. In some species, it is moulted (completely or partially) so rapidly, into a later plumage, that the birds are rarely seen in it, and much is yet to be learned regarding these juvenal plumages.

Mourning Dove

To assist the young birds to chip their way out of the shell, there is a little bump on the top of the bill near the tip. This disappears within a few days of hatching.

In most young birds, the base of the bill is light yellow, is turned downward and remains to a considerable extent exposed even when the young are full-grown. This gives the juvenal bird a distinctive appearance. In some cases, where the juvenal plumage is like that of the adult female, this light yellow part, with its unhappy expression is the only noticeable mark in the field.

In addition to the domestic pigeon, which has been bred from the wild rock dove of Europe, there is one species of wild pigeon found throughout southern Canada, the mourning dove. The mourning dove is so called from its note, a low-toned coo coo coo, with a doleful character. It is a small pigeon with a long, tapering tail and brownish coloring. By the way, the words pigeon and dove are synonymous.

Czechoslovakia, central European republic which has been on the front page news columns for some time, is one of the most prolific stamp-issuing countries. In the twenty years that the republic has been issuing stamps some of the finest pictorial adhesives have come from Czechoslovakia.

The first official issue appeared in 1918 and was an imperforated crude printing. The same design, a castle, appeared on a second issue in 1919 and the next year President Thomas Masaryk made his first postal appearance. The same year the first pictorial stamp appeared, and in 1925 the president appeared on a second smaller stamp. The first scenic pictorial came in 1926, and have been followed consistently every few years with additional scenes showing the beauty of the mountainous regions and the ancient castles and churches.

Good King Wenceslaus

There have been numerous commemorative issues, for King Wenceslaus who lived a thousand years ago, for the founder of the national games, for musicians, for the armed forces of the republic while it was in the making, for poets, scientists and military leaders, and for the founding of the national anthem. When President Masaryk died in 1935, President Benes was elected and appeared on postal paper for the first time in 1936.

Only two distinct air mail sets have been issued, the first in 1920 being an overprint of stamps of that year, and the second, in 1930, showing planes in flight over the country. This issue is still in use. There have not been many charity issues, most of them coming in 1919, and many being overprints of

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt

Our Neighbor Joe for the first time since he was married has no vacation worries this summer. It's all been arranged and taken care of. He'll spend his vacation in a quiet place—and, best of all, at government expense!

The whole thing started when Joe happened to meet a travel agent at a bridge party.

The next day the agent sent Joe a batch of beautiful folders extolling the merits of various play spots and havens of rest. Joe and Mrs. Joe had a grand time looking them over.

The agent must have tipped off other agents for, from then on Joe's mail was almost 100 per cent beach ballyhoo and mountain resort propaganda.

Joe and Mrs. Joe read and looked at the pictures of them all. And then a terrible thing happened. They couldn't make up their minds where to go!

After three sleepless nights and 482 quarrels with the wife over the merits of this mountain and the beauties of that beach Joe had to relieve his feelings, so he went down town and socked the travel agent with two tons of vacation folders.

The judge gave Joe six months, but a broad smile played over the features of the condemned man as he heard the sentence. At last, his vacation problem was solved and by no kind of argument could Mrs. Joe change it!

A local blue-blood who has always bemoaned the fact that we Canadians failed to follow so many fine old English customs hasn't had much to say since the British boosted their income tax to 27½ per cent.

Scripture—Mark 15:22-39.

The Suffering Servant

Pontius Pilate having given Jesus over to his enemies to be crucified, they came to the place of execution, called "Golgotha"—meaning "the place of a skull."

Pilate ordered placed over Jesus' cross the words, "Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews." Two thieves were crucified with Jesus, one on each side.

During the six hours Jesus hung on the cross the mob, including the priests, mocked him, saying, "He saved others; himself he cannot save."

Out of the darkness Jesus cried, "My God, why hast thou forsaken me?" After his death the centurion said, "Truly this man was the Son of God." (GOLDEN TEXT—Mark 15:45)

Communications

Editor,
The Independent,
Dear Sir,

We shall be greatly obliged if you will contradict the statement that was made at the North Grimsby Township Council meeting that was held last Saturday, and a report of which will appear in this week's copy of the Independent, "that members of the Club were not interested in the dances."

The facts are that Mr. Woods was not renting the room, but had certain arrangements with the Club management, whereby he was authorized to hold the dances there, subject to the approval of the managers, on behalf of the members, as to who could be admitted, and to the use of the club property. The members and their friends turned out in good numbers last Saturday night, and the dance was very successful.

However, to save any further errors, the Golf Club management themselves are in future holding the dances every Saturday night for the Club members and their friends only, the same as has been done for the past twenty-five years. Mr. W. Woods and Art Arnold, are both club members, and have been appointed to the dance committee to manage and act as masters of ceremonies at the dances on behalf of the club membership.

Thanking you in anticipation of the insertion of this correction.

Yours truly,

Charles J. Eames.

Dear Sir:

I notice in the press that the North Grimsby council has refused an application for a dance hall license at the Grimsby Golf Club. Instead of refusing a license to the Casino dance hall, this same council has greatly reduced the assessment. The writer would like to point out that a large number of tax-paying citizens live in close proximity to the Casino and are compelled night after night to listen to the noise of the so-called music which continues till 1 o'clock in the morning D.S.T. For these citizens the council seems to have absolutely no consideration in the matter. The Golf Club House on the other hand is isolated. Moreover the Golf Club building is well constructed whereas part of the Casino fell into the lake some time ago and the other part has a great crack in the wall which, I fancy, would not pass government inspection.

The council's action savors of favoritism and a lack of consideration of a large number of citizens who desire freedom from an institution which is a disturbing element and which greatly decreases the value of surrounding property. One of the noise victims.

The Fruit Industry suffered the loss of one of its most prominent men with the passing on June 9th, of Charles Walker Baxter, president and manager of the Niagara Packers, Limited.

An article printed in this issue announced the fact that Fruit Growers of British Columbia were planning an extensive newspaper advertising campaign for the prairies, to offset the popularity of the Ontario fruit.

Irvin Olmsted, who for several years, conducted a meat market on Main Street, disposed of his interests to Mr. A. Peart, of Guelph, the new proprietor taking over the business on June 12th.

The old switch board in the Bell Telephone exchange has been torn down, and the telephone operators are now using a temporary board in the upstairs of the local office. In the meantime the installing of the new telephone system will be commenced downstairs.

A joint meeting of members of the Town Council and the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, was held in the Council Chambers last evening to arrive at a selling price for the Baymac Tire Building, (the present Dunrobin Distillery). This information was sought owing to the fact that there are several propositions pending for the taking over of this building by manufacturing concerns.

The death occurred in Hamilton on Friday, June 8th, of an old resident of Grimsby, and one of the town's former merchants for 45 years, in the person of John W. Konkle.

OUR ERROR!

In the report of the town council proceedings, published in last week's Independent an error occurred, which was entirely the fault of this office. The motion by Dick and Chivers, "police uniforms be purchased from J. H. Culp and that Constable Turner be reimbursed for expense in locating wanted man on Mayor's instructions, and that if man who is wanted on criminal charge, be brought to trial, the town pay certain expense," should have read—Carried—instead of being declared lost.
